Looking back on ~~the course of our lives~~our life track, we ~~would~~ find that countless people leave a mark on us. When we are children, we have the closest relationships with our parents. In this situation, parents are the people who give us the most guidance in life, and I firmly believe that parents are ~~our~~the best teachers of us.

There is no doubt that teachers in ~~the school~~ do have a critical impact on us, for/because/since they teach us science and professional knowledge. But their guidance is usually limited in/to classes. However, parents are the teachers of our life/our life teachers. ~~They~~For they usually stay with us, so we can learn from them not only by what they said but also by what they did. And in my opinion, it is the most effective and natural way to learn. For instance, ~~the animals~~ such as elephants and lions improve their viability by imitating their parents' behavior, and the same situation happened when we were very young. Still, a person from a harmonious family is more ~~likely~~possible to be friendly and good-tempered.

What's more, parents are among the very few people who treat us honestly in the world. We can trust them without suspecting their intentions, but we usually have to think about another person's purpose when he/she gives us ~~advice~~raises advice to us. Admittedly, ~~since/because~~for they have been watching us for our entire growth cyclewhole growing track, they must know us better than others. Combined with their rich experience, their suggestions would be more practical to accept in many situations.

Taking all these into consideration, many people may give us some guidance in different situations. ~~Alt~~Though all of them can be our teachers, our parents must be the best ones.
