

Yao Yihao
Dalian University of Technology

(The student wrote this essay more than five times under our guidance prior to writing this draft.)

It's [1] very common that people regard ~~one's/the salary/for people to regard their salaries~~ as an important factor to find ~~/in finding~~ a job due to the financial pressure from everywhere in the society, ~~w-~~While it's my humble opinion that the pay of the job is not the most essential aspect.

Admittedly, the salary of a job determines the quantity of our material life. There are many financial burdens for people such as debt for houses, cars and insurance, ~~s~~ and so on. Even as a student I am under financial pressure because of ~~a~~ tight allowance every month. Therefore, it would be necessary to attach importance to the pay ~~earned/acquired from~~ of a job.

Nevertheless, potential development of ~~one's/the career~~ is more necessary for people who would like ~~to~~ push themselves ~~towards~~ for a better life.

~~Also,/Moreover,/Furthermore,/Additionally,-What's more, at~~ the potential promotion can motivate employees to work harder. For example, my uncle worked for a media company before and was ~~relatively literarily~~ satisfied with the salary at the beginning. But he was impatient about the job ~~since there were few~~ without chances ~~/because there was no chance~~ to be promoted. ~~Since~~ After switching to another company, he ~~has~~ dedicated ~~himself~~ to ~~his~~ the new job to ~~advance/progress~~ get promoted in his career.

Consequently, sometimes the ~~promotion-~~ chances of a job ~~promotion are more appealing than the pay-~~ is more appealing than the pay of it.

Besides, I think that the personal time after daily work is also important to ponder. To be more specific, if employees' personal ~~lives are~~ is overwhelmed by ~~high amounts~~ of ~~extensive/unlimited~~ the infinite work, even a high salary job would not satisfy them because of the unbalance between the job and their personal life. For instance, many elites who have earned enough money already barely have time to stay with their families. Not surprisingly, many of them would also hold ~~the~~ ~~an~~ opposite opinion that salary is less important than personal time.

~~Put it in~~ In a nutshell, the money a person earns obviously is not the most important factor when it comes to ~~a job s-~~ Since sometimes ~~the chances of~~ promotion ~~chances-~~ and personal time also play important roles in people's ~~lives~~ ~~fe~~.

Comments: It is recommended to avoid contractions on TOEFL for no reason other than it appears more formal when full words are used, i.e., 'It is' might be better than 'It's' although your contractions are all used perfectly.